1615                    Kung Foo Panda                    @ The Kingfisher, Chertsey                    07/04/2015

This was the pub 15 months back in Jan 2014, which was flooded by the Thames, and all the roads, and many houses nearby of course when Ruth & Alan were setting it, so a nice tranquil dry evening for them tonight. Our Hare sent us over the bridge, and off into the beyond wending our way all over the shop next to the river, and a very interesting route it was, off to Addlestone and back through Chertsey town centre, past The Crown Hotel, and in along the river again, fantastic Kung Foo Panda, we slut you, no that's not right, we salute you ! Phew corrected that, you did not read it did you ? Oh no ..... Some gossip, we had some James Bond impersonators with us tonight no names, who had the cheek to travel by dinghy up the Thames to this pretty little restaurant pub, which was shaken not stirred by their arrival ! Our kind Hare even gave us big bowls of skinny chips to munch on...'yummy' was the secret password to get them, then they were brought out to us all. Kerry & Tracy appeared in the pub, and told us they had done the run...we errrr.....believe you, but do it WITH us next time, it's more fun that way. On On , Epsom here we come next week, .....giddy up !

1616                    Tight Git                    @ The Cricketers, Epsom                    14/04/2015

Oh forever England! what? pub on a green, called ..... you get the picture, one of those special settings. A big group turned up early for this one, as we watched Louise reversing her car in, to the tune of Hashers cheering! Off into the woods we went, never to return.....well not until much later, super trail from our one and only Tight Git, who even gave us the delights of Ashted Common to sprint through. Kindly gesturing, here and there, as to which way it might be worth checking. Visitors tonight were Emlyn, aka Made to Come, and Legolass, both from Old Coulsdon Hash, and both about to go abroad this year, one for a month the other for 2 years!! Working of course. Wasser, Len & Tossler were here for this high profile run, and to sample the beers afterwards, and lots of chips too. Even Simon and George were galloping along like stallions, oh errrr ! A very jovial night was had by all, in this very welcoming cosy pub !

1617                    TopMan & Naked Chef                    @ The Foley Arms, Claygate                    21/04/2015

A few hardy individuals turned up in the freezing cold at the Foley arms in Claygate. I am sure it was warmer at the same time last year. The pub has a Latin coat of arms proclaiming "ut prosim". No idea what it means but a wag did suggest "Good Chips". We trundled off from the start following Top man and Naked chefs trail, some clever twists and turns fooled the more experienced and then we came across a marked through check which fooled some more. A little later, some saw a baby deer in a clearing, others saw venison. What it made of a line of chattering hashers is anyone's guess but it did glance back a few times to take stock of the situation. The run was perfectly timed to get us back to the good choice of pub after just over 4 miles with "good chips" and ale. (Doner)

1618                    Master Bates                    @ The Crown, Horsell                    28/04/2015

Intrigue was running through the pack, before this one, I will let you ponder on it, while I explain all for you. Firstly, visitors tonight, a very warm welcome to Karen all the way from Melbourne, on a 3 week trip to the UK lucky lady, great to see you again, plus Sam the dog too. Our Hare managed to find every little bit of woodland in sight, as we were given a masterclass in clever trail setting with heaps of flour, but more importantly a great route to follow. Nostalgia, well Master Bates wanted us to KNOW where the Marital home used to be, yes.....got it.....but then ... where the X now lives...mmmm too much information, ho hum! The comedy started near the end, poor Dishy Dave pulled his muscle, steady on...no his calf, and so we thought he would safely walk back to the pub. He did not make it at first, so Spanish Mistress & Sodden Assets set off in pursuit. Then Dishy Dave strolled into the pub, and then straight back out again with Dingaling to search for....The Other One !! Met up, half a mile back, and returned to the friendly pub to sup Ale & lager. All was well, and Dingaling ordered a packet of plain crisps, to be told by the smiling Publican.....we only sell helicopter crisps...ha ha! Master Bates, very kindly supplied lots of chips, from a local takeaway....THANKYOU for another fine night chasing flour! On On

What a location, deep in the bowels of The Surrey Hills, you would need good navigation to find this place, nestled on the down slopes near Abinger Hammer, what fabulous village names eh? Straight off the bat, clouds brewing above, we set off up the steep hillside, to look back, at the roof of the pub we left below! Our classy Hare has a reputation for quality runs, and we suspect he will deliver again here. Beautiful rolling hills overlooking dipping valleys and silver birch woodland. We ran through the famous Wotton Estate, owned by John Evelyn he of the famous diaries in the 1660's, and all those trees planted at Leith hill and Friday street. His father had 100 servants all dressed in green satin doublets and feather braided hats!! So there. Our night was all up and down, but rewarded with the views. Many turned up and got a special run, Mother Brown, Wasser, Great Bear Master Bates, and all the usual suspects. We wish gorgeous George all the best for his lovely wife Anna who is due to give birth on 4 June. Beautiful Italian names are needed! The Volunteer is a super friendly pub and Lisa & Linda made us all very welcome and Pig Pen delivered a great run .....and loads of chips after.....woo hoo! If you missed it, make sure you are here next week, for more fun and frolics
