1560 Matt @ The Weir Hotel, Walton on Thames 18/03/2014

Well Spring has sprung, and our healthy runners were out in droves on Tuesday night to enjoy the delights of Father Thames, and the marvels of bridge construction on the eye. Our local boy Matt, teased us into thinking we were going inland, but then snuck back along the Thames footpath, which conveniently was back under our feet, and not a metre deep in water. Visitors tonight, were Call Girl, aka Nicki, always a pleasure, Major F. Liability, out in his Summer shorts, and Knickers aka Alison, who it was great to see in the bar afterwards! Matt took us over the new Walton bridge twice, great design too, and back round the town finally along the riverside to The Weir. Torches are still in use, as it is still a bit dark, come 9pm. No beer festival on this visit, but Hash chips were kindly ordered by our Hare...thank you and much laughter and chat was banging around the room we took over, banter over many runners who need to be given Hash names, heh, heh we will see!

1561 Calamity @ The Cricketers, Horsell 25/03/2014

Yes, a run in Martian country, this one, very well supported, All keen to test themselves on a run set by our good Hare Calamity. One of our visitors tonight was indeed Yogi Bear, which was nice, but the voice was not quite right, pity, but he was cool and from the 'pissed often' Hash near Guildford, would you Adam & Eve it ?? Drama tonight, as Molesey Matt, wearing gloves, stopped to adjust his clothing, and left them there on the path, all lonely. He finished the run, and heard them calling him back ! He somehow retraced his steps, and YES, he found them again, and so happy to be reunited ! Hurrah for your perseverance Matt ! Now back to the start, we roared off into the dark, to explore the streets of Horsell and found ourselves seemingly trapped in the Goldsworth Park housing estate built in the 1970's, nice little houses, but they all look very similar, and our Hare toyed with us, and must have kept us running around here for a good 20 minutes or so, before finally coming back to the lake, and then the way out. I feel like an Estate Agent said one, and where's the pub ? said another. Apparently our previous Grand Master Briain , yes that's his correct spelling, told us it was called that because they found some gold coins way back in the past, so there ! Our pub was lovely, large sprawling, homely place set on a green, and very welcoming, with supping of ales and lagers very much liked by all ! So, come and join us for your Tuesday nights, different town every week ! Yehaa !

1562 Tosser @ The Black Swan, Ockham 01/04/2014

Another fascinating evening with Weybridge Hash, running, humour, drama and gossip galore, we had it all tonight. The car park bulged with cars unloading their occupants to join us, ok.....a few did have blondes with them and disappeared into the gastro pub restaurant ! But the intrepid amongst us, followed the flour, and started running. We yomped across freshly ploughed fields, torches at the ready, the dark coming upon us quickly. Visitors tonight were Mother Brown, all the way from Australia, great to see you Ron, tanned and ready. Our previous Grand Master, Briain, yep that's the spelling, was encouraged to take a short cut, but sadly got very lost, and had to traverse barbed wire ditches to get to a house and ask 'Where am I ?' A humbling prospect for any of us, he won't be asking for a short cut again ! Then, another visitor Martin, our pilot, he had a short but bloody meeting with the barbed wire as well, but mainly because he did NOT bring a torch, always comes in handy, to prevent a fall. Then, in the up market pub/restaurant, a certain gentleman was distracted by a delectable willowy blonde sat in the corner, and almost asked Ding a Ling to go and investigate personal info on the beauteous wonderment !! Our tables were plied with best beers, lagers and chips a plenty ! See you next week....

1563 All Up Front @ The Royal Oak, Bookham 08/04/2014

A fabulous clear night sky, a small Young Street car park, which we filled and a keen pack of runners. This is a great location for a run, up on the hillside we set off into the woodlands and farmlands of The Norbury Park estate, delightful! We seemed to go everywhere, but thankfully not as far as Dorking anyway. Gossip tonight, our new girl Rachel, met Olympic Gold Medallist Jessica Ennis in London recently after winning a Biomechanics competition, so well done YOU Rach ! Neil's son Matt came along to see us, he's been so busy studying, got his exams next year, so wants to get fit he's 15 now. All runners tonight made it back, and we drove off to a lovely 15th century pub, The Royak Oak in the middle of Bookham town centre (ed and not Leatherhead!), where we were made very welcome, thankyou Landlord ! See you again. Did you know, 'The Druids Grove' of famous Yew trees is mentioned in The Domesday Book of 1086, just where we have all run tonight, so there! Apparently, they are some of the oldest trees in Great Britain! Our Hare tonight, All Up Front did a great job, well done Cathy!

1564 Naked Chef & Top Man @ The Ditton, Long Ditton 15/04/2014

This was a treat ! Our happy Hares Naked Chef & Top Man took all of us runners, some 25 or so, on a merry jaunt round nicely hidden local footpaths, some used for horses of course ideal for us. We meandered to Hinchley Wood, then Thames Ditton, some nice woodland again, off cleverly round the back alleys of the village and into the pub via a large park area. Supa dupa ! Publand was very good too, local staff in The Ditton were very professional, plus chips for all ! Visitors tonight were Pickled Fart from West London Hash, and Call Girl too, who spotted a gorgeous orange moon, Crouching Tiger from China, great to see you, please come again ! Delighted to see Knickers, aka Alison tonight ! Pig Pen was leaping along, in fine form, George too, soon to be Mr & Mrs !! Best wishes X Great Bear, Tight Git, Mark & Spanish Mistress were tempted by The Bowling alley inside the pub, why hey ! The clatter of skittles. See you next Tuesday, 8pm..The Sir Douglas Haig in Effingham. It will be fun, as always.....and Simon will be back !
