A nice little spot this, in Industrial Estate land, but right next to the river, with The Pelican having it's own moorings on the Wey Navigation. Little bit chilly and dark tonight, but we were keen to run, torches at the ready. Our arrival was rewarded with a super trail, off through the very pretty, caravan park which becomes my home now ! ..... maybe, and all immaculately kept. A lesson there. We spent a lot of our run alongside either the River Wey or the River Bourne, really little more than a stream, which rises in Windsor Great Park, and travels through to join the Thames at Hamm Court, Weybridge. Visitors, or old friends back again tonight were Dishy Dave, our Scientist, who always enlightens us with his knowledge, on something or other ! Master Bates, Great Bear, and even Agent Provocateur, but no gorgeous models in attendance this week. Our pub was a bit of a treat, windows festooned with white spiders webs, and spiders within them of course, a groovy ghoulie of a skeleton by the door, as you entered, but you notice it more on the way out ! Halloween is here tonight. The staff supplied, courtesy of our generous Hare, humongous bowls of chips, not easy to empty. They were happy pumping out some great tunes from the 90's, and dancing too, with a running football commentary on as well ! Now, remember, we NEED runners to step up, and offer Louise, a super area for a run, so contact her next week, and OFFER a town and a pub for us to run from !! Please .....On On !

Spanish Mistress & @ The Four Horseshoes, Chobham
Sodden Assets

25/10/2016

Arriving at this beautiful pub restaurant, set back from the road in a nice crescent style, we were hoping for something special, and with the numbers growing, perhaps the word had got round, that was possibly true. Visitors tonight, or regulars returning were Ex GM Tosser, fresh from his holiday plus Dishy Dave was back, more of him later, our young runner Jo, all the way from the Yorkshire Dales, and Tracy back to swat those pesky wasps. No more this year we hope ! We ran into Chobham Common, and were caught going the wrong way many times, while the route cleverly came back on itself. Much flour was laid, excellent, and no one fell in the ponds. A super trail was laid, and at Vale End, it was found that is a good place to see one of over a hundred different birds here, such as the Nightjar, and a vast collection of butterflies in the Summer too. Now gossip time, as we were coming to the end of our run, it appeared Dishy Dave had stopped for a possible comfort break, but much to Dingaling's surprise was told.....wait for it..... he was just unwrapping his sweet chestnuts !!! I ask you .....that's a good line in a nightclub ! So, into the warm pub, a cosy nook in the corner to sample skinny chips or fat chips, that was the question ? The answer you know. Master Bates was with us, but no Wasser, where is he ? Anyway.....a cracking night, big thanks to Sodden Assets & Spanish Mistress for the quality run. New Hares needed, talk to Louise next week please !! Oh.....and someone to write this each week please, as Dingaling is off to paradise island again ! Hey Hey....

Kebab

@ The Flower Pot Hotel, Sunbury

01/11/2016

British summertime finally came to an end and on the first Tuesday of winter, most Hashers appeared to have started their hibernation already. A largely empty carpark greeted those hardened hashers who had defied nature and turned out on a dark chilly night in Sunbury. The magnificent 7 set off along a fine trail set by Kebab. A splendidly tight and intricate run along the Thames, through Sunbury Park and down every foot path that existed in the local vicinity. Numbers swelled at the end to a mighty 11 hashers, including the Ard-on Provocateur.

The hare showed his artistic side tonight with an array of cheeky and delicious checks. A sheep ( or was it a pig?) a grumpy man, and maybe even a Santa! Topman took a trip over the pavement Himalayas and tumbled A over T but thankfully bounced! Matt suffered traffic issues and had to play catch up but didn't quite make it before the chips had been laid out before a grateful and hungry pack had arrived back at the pub. A variety of regular and sweet potato chips were heartily devoured, (almost a plate each!) with lashings of Garlic Mayo.

Mega bit showed the pack Briain's realistic Halloween make up only to be told it was for real! Hope the scars heal up soon Briain. PS keep off the wine! Next week we will all do it all again – on on Topman

Worzel

@ The Queens Head, Byfleet

08/11/2016

According to Wikipedia Byfleet is a village of medieval origin that is today the most distant but contiguous suburb of the large town of Woking in Surrey, England. Subsequently, residents are often referred to as 'Islanders'.

Once again we assembled in the pub car park at 8pm. Hats, gloves, torches and long trousers are now the norm. 8pm sharp (ish) rolled around and we were off. Through industrial estates and towards Brooklands we ran. Doner and Wasser were so busy chatting about Hong Kong they missed the trail, ended up at the bus garage and got lost. They may or may not have shortcut back to the pub and missed out a chunk of the trail.

Back in the pub, chips all round while we tried to work out Worzel's surname from Tosser's clues...the first bird of summer? Then to work out the ages of various hashers. Fun all round . On on

Top Man & Naked Chef @ The Albion, Hampton Court

15/11/2016

The hares were looking pretty lonely outside the Albion, on a pretty damp evening, but just in time enough hounds turned up to relax "le chef". So it was off on a hearty lap of the park with Louise herself leading the way (Shurely some mishtake-Ed). Good use of path and track kept the pack guessing for what my GPS tells me was a good rummage around in the Bushy. There are worse things to do. There was plenty of grunts and bellows to be heard and the deer were pretty noisy too. None the less we all galloped in just as the rain started. Another master class by the master chef ! Chips were served but the beer quality left a bit .... The big question of the night was how come I left the pub with England leading 2-0 and got home to find they had snatched a draw !
