1570 Call Girl & Pickled Fart @ The Boaters Inn, Kingston 27/05/2014

As our resident scribe was off watching Katy Perry, Pig Pen took up the slack. Nigel, you lazy arse, when you do the write up, you need to mention the following: Mention that it was raining. And I mean raining. Wetter than a bride on her wedding night. Oh, and mention that the directions were a bit off so we were all lost for a bit trying to actually find the pub. Then tell everyone how Call Girl and Pickled Fart do seem to like a back alley, or back passage or whatever you call them. Then mention the bloke who thought he was going to be mugged. Ha ha ! by Linda !! (mind you) Now it is also important to mention the mud; Mud glorious mud. A fantastic looping loop weaving through the wild jungles of Ham. It was great. Not a dry shoe in the house. Then mention that we were well marshalled by the generous Hares back to the pub. And it was still fucking raining. If you have space, tell everyone how good the chips were, and the beer and what a top hash it was. Oh and mention that you were not there. Lazy arse.

1571 Tight Git @ The Derby Arms, Epsom 03/06/2014

A goodly gathering turned up for the brightest sky of the year, as we approach the longest day in a couple of weeks. Very well planned tonight's run, what with The Oaks being run here Friday and The Derby on Saturday, all the glitterati is set out. Our star tonight was of course, Louise, being her Birthday and all that.....chocolate cake, delicious ! We set off across the racecourse, through the woods, almost into Tadworth, and we went round most of the best hilly bits, surrounding the course, and Epsom Downs is a BIG place, very suited for us runners. Mother Brown was here, Tossler, Len, plus Rachel was back from working too hard. Call Girl, who's run last week in Kingston was soaked, could enjoy tonight. Molesey Matt was here, but only saw him in the pub, where DID he go? Tight Git Giles, set a meandering trail, taking in all the local contours, as you do, and it was very well received. Pig Pen Matt is not now turning professional as a cyclist with Team Sky, as we had thought, he feels the recent European 100 kilometre ride was well, er ..good enough! We had another star tonight, English visitor, who runs in Hong Kong with Wanchai Hash and hi Hash name is.....Pokeahardon.....I say.....please...steady on there !!! He did get some stick from the Pikey girls near the finish...they LURVED his short shorts, shall we say ! Come join us for more fun next week in Friday Street, out in the woods to play.

1572 Great Bear @ Stephen Langton, Friday Street 10/06/2014

A Summer treat in old English woodland, was in store for all who turned up for this tough up and downer, everybody could sample the delights of Abinger Common and The Wotton Estate, home of the celebrated writer, gardener and diarist, John Evelyn, (1620-1706) and whose family's fortune was founded in gunpowder manufacturing, around this 3,000 acre estate, much of which we ran round tonight! Hong Kong Hash harrier Pokeahardon joined us again, and with his wife this time, Mole, who seemed to enjoy herself, on what was quite a humid night. All Up Front Cathy and Simon were back with us too, always a treat! Our strenuous efforts to avoid tripping over branches and tree roots were rewarded in the pub restaurant, which feels very homely indeed. Marissa and her hardworking eager colleague Sarah-Jane managed to put up with a chatty sweaty bunch of gossips, all keen to drink, and devour crisps, but sadly not the delicious sausage and onions, that Rupert once treated us too, here in the past. great run though. Food here, is delicious by the way, so don't miss out. A tranquil, peaceful setting, ideal for a meal and a few drinks. We will be back again, for another run soon, we have been coming here for 20 years or so. Gossip has it that Mark, could finally be given a Hash name of.....Loudmouth being that he is so quiet !! Spanish Mistress seemed to quite like that one. Neil and son Stuart were out in force, running well, and Mother Brown too, This is a beautiful place to be, anytime. See ya soon !

1573 Lunchbox @ The Victoria, Oxshott 17/06/2014

We all arrived in the Sandy Lane car park, in the middle of Oxshott Common. A popular location for sure, by the number of runners who turned up. Visitors tonight were Skylark who runs with City Hash in London, and who has run with us before, last year in fact. Also Scott was back with us, amusing chap, Ding a Ling thinks Scott should be a stand up comedian, he has that ability. Here to get fit though before his duties at George's Wedding this Saturday !! Our good friend Rachel was back with us too, keen to get running again, as working hard. We disappeared into the woods, and well erm.....really we stayed there, no eagles, bats, or creatures of scientific interest at all were seen tonight. Pity. A well layed course set by the ever reliable Lunchbox, made it an entertaining run, with plenty of flour to boot. One Hasher said we did cross the trail a couple of times too !! All made it back to the car park, then a short drive to the pub, and quality ales were here in abundance. The Victoria even serves you beer in the appropriately chilled branded glass, very nice touch. We wish George huge best wishes for his Wedding this Friday in Marlow !! Woo hoo !

Kung Foo Panda

@ The Rose and Olive Branch, Virginia Water

24/06/2014

A lovely little country pub hidden away amongst the greenery, was our setting tonight. Our Hare, Kung Foo Panda gave us a guided tour of The famous Wentworth Estate, in fact, most of it, me thinks. Our knowledge of property design and landscaping will be up to....Grand Designs standards after this run. Good clever weaving and changes of direction kept us quite lost at times, but eventually we made it back, after a tree laden tarmac run through sumptuous residential splendour. Visitors tonight, were Hanging About from North Hants Hash, based at Farnham, also Melanie was back with us again, always welcome, ran with us in the Winter. Skylark was here for more entertainment, and was not disappointed. Kerry & Tracy too, great to have you back where you belong, we have missed you both ! Our Hare kindly laid on plates of chips galore, and we were eating out of his hands !! Well done and see you all next week.
